RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. PROCEEDINGS

THE COURT: All right. This is Judge Glenn. We're on the record in Residential Capital, LLC, number 12-12020. I apologize for being late for the hearing.

I have the list of appearances in front of me.

Mr. Eckstein, are you going to begin?

MR. ECKSTEIN: Your Honor, thank you very much. I'm going to have my partner, Brad O'Neill, actually handle the discovery issues, if that's acceptable.

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. O'NEILL: Good morning, Judge Glenn. This is Brad O'Neill.

As I see it, there are two principal issues from the perspective of the committee for this hearing on the 24th, and they relate, actually, not surprisingly, to documents and to depositions. We served document requests on the debtors back on July the 6th and on AFI on, I believe, the beginning of this week after receiving the Marano declaration the week before that.

To date, we have received comparatively few documents. We are promised additional documents, but as of now, we don't have any electronic discovery, we don't have complete board minutes, and we don't have other material documents. We are told that -- and I believe that parties are working to produce those documents, but we're told by the debtors that they can't get us the first wave of electronic discovery until Monday, and they don't think they can complete production until Wednesday -- or late Tuesday, maybe Wednesday, they say. And AFI is prepared, I guess, subject to the resolution of some issues relating to a protective order and the committee's willingness to accept the documents pending resolution of that on a professionals-eyes-only basis, to begin production this evening but, again, can't commit to finishing production before mid-next week.

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL.

That presents a problem, Your Honor, because there are three declarants in the case, all of whom need to be deposed, and as well as we've asked for a 30(b)(6) from Ally Bank and a witness from AFI, so that's five depositions. Even if we were to double or triple track, which I think we're prepared to do in light of Your Honor's schedule, it's extremely tight, almost impossible, I think, to get properly prepared for those depositions if we don't have documents before, at a minimum, the very beginning of next week.

So that's issue number 1. And I guess issue number 2 is depositions which I've described for you, as well. I believe the debtors are interested in obtaining some form of preview of our arguments, but I'll let them speak for themselves on that issue.

THE COURT: Who's going to speak for the debtors?

MR. ENGELHARDT: Good afternoon, Your Honor. This is

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL.

Stefan Engelhardt from Morrison & Foerster.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. ENGELHARDT: With respect to the discovery, we are making all due efforts to complete our discovery as promptly as possible. The hold-up here is technical. We received proposed search terms from the committee on Sunday night. On Monday, the debtors made efforts to identify where the electronic information would be stored and gathered; that was done. The data was collected on Tuesday and Wednesday and is now being sent for processing today. We imagine that will be ready for review internally by attorneys for production and privilege commencing hopefully tomorrow. We will be rolling it out in waves on a rolling production to get this into the creditors' committee's hands as quickly as possible.

MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, Brad O'Neill. If I may respond.

THE COURT: Sure.

MR. O'NEILL: Our original request delivered on July 6th requested electronic discovery, and it was not until the very end of last week that we learned that the debtors had not conducted any form of search for electronic information, and that's why search terms were delivered late. But basically we assumed they were searching, and they were not.

MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, Stefan Engelhardt for the debtors.

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL.

The discovery request that the committee sent to the debtors on July 6th was an informal letter discovery request.

THE COURT: That's usually enough, as far as I'm concerned.

MR. ENGELHARDT: It was contemplating a hearing on July 24th with production to start within a couple of days and end within a week. Under that time frame, it would have been impossible to conduct any type of electronic discovery review, and we didn't contemplate that the debtors were seeking -- in the absence of proposed search terms or requesting a meet and confer, on those -- what the scope of electronic discovery would be, we did not contemplate that the committee would be seeking electronic discovery. As soon as we learned that they would like electronic discovery, we kicked up the process immediately and it's proceeding forthwith.

MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, the informal request -- and I'm sure everyone on this call was sent out one of these requests -- it's a letter with a document request attached to it, a formal document request that doesn't have a caption on it, and it's got all the standard definitions, and it's quite clear that it seeks electronic information. There was no ambiguity about it.

THE COURT: Well, as far as I'm concerned, where the parties are working on an expedited basis, it's much more common, certainly in bankruptcy, to have -- you want to call them informal, I don't think there's very much informal about them -- letter requests for documents. I've always considered them and treated them the same way as a formal document request. You can't sit back and ignore the request. If you're going to do that, you've got to put the other side back on notice that we'll consider your request when you serve formal request.

The reality here is that the underlying issues are complex, and the committee is entitled to its discovery before a contested hearing goes forward. I understand the need for expeditious hearings, but the parties are entitled to discovery before they have to go to a contested evidentiary hearing.

So what is it, Mr. O'Neill, what is it that you would like?

MR. O'NEILL: Well, Your Honor, I think the schedule would be more manageable if there were an additional week. Then documents could be produced next week, we could conduct the depositions in a more orderly fashion the following week, and then Your Honor could have the hearing the week after that, or rather we could submit all the materials ahead of time so Your Honor could be properly prepared for the hearing when we get to that. I think right now we're on for the 14th; I think a hearing the following week with the schedule adjusted in that fashion would be appropriate.

MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, that would present great eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

problems --

THE COURT: This is Mr. Engelhardt speaking?

MR. ENGELHARDT: I'm sorry, Your Honor. Yes, this is Stefan Engelhardt on behalf of the debtors.

That would present incredible problems on behalf of all the estates here. The current servicing agreement under which the debtors are operating expires, I believe, on August 20th. As soon as that is gone, there is no servicing agreement. There is a great risk, from what I understand from AFI, that the FDIC could very well instruct the servicing of the loans to be pulled, and it would cause catastrophic damage to the estates.

THE COURT: Well, that's very nice. So then you put in another twenty people to produce all electronic discovery by Monday. Is that what you want? I want everything produced; you make everybody available for deposition. If you haven't produced all of the requested discovery by Monday, I will take appropriate action. Do you want sanctions? Tell me what you want.

You can't -- I understand you're saying it's urgent that this hearing go forward. It is also essential that the objectors, and this is not a case -- look, I'm coming across probably too hard. I'm not accusing anybody of bad faith on either side, but it's the debtor that's driving this very aggressive schedule. If the discovery that the committee is

eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

seeking to take is reasonable -- nobody has suggested it's not -- you can't expect to go forward with an evidentiary -- they can't be expected to go forward with depositions without the documents they need to conduct the depositions. Okay, that's point 1.

You've not suggested that the discovery they've requested is unreasonable. And so there are a couple of choices. Either I just order that you do the impossible, you're saying it's impossible. You just -- I don't care what resources you have to put to it; you do it. You tell your client they've got to do it. If they don't do it, we'll deal with it. I'll just tell you, just look at my order in In Re: Velo imposing sanctions. I continued a preliminary injunction, in effect, beyond the fourteen days that the rules permit because the nondebtor defendant in that case didn't produce all of the discovery including electronic discovery within the time required for a hearing.

And, I mean, look, you've got to do one of two things: either you find a way to accommodate the committee's discovery request, putting whatever resources are necessary to get them the information, not rolling production. If you can't live with it -- if you can't get them the information by Monday, then it seems to me the hearing shouldn't go forward, because without the documents, they can't go ahead and take the depositions.

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL.

What is it that -- let me ask you, the committee has said what they want, what is it that you want, Mr. Engelhardt?

MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, I would -- this is Stefan Engelhardt. Your Honor, I was hopeful that the debtors would be able to commence a rolling production on Monday concluding by Wednesday with depositions on Thursday and Friday.

THE COURT: So, Mr. O'Neill, why isn't -- tell me why that's not reasonable.

MR. O'NEILL: Because I believe, Your Honor, that we're going to get a huge data dump, and we are not going to be able to get through it in time to uniquely prepare for the depositions. Frankly, I think getting this stuff by Monday is tight, but getting it by Wednesday, I think, is impossible.

THE COURT: Tell me what the issues for this evidentiary hearing are from the committee's standpoint.

MR. O'NEILL: The issues are going to relate to the debtors' exercise of its business judgment, Your Honor, and in particular, whether they acted with appropriate -- whether they were disinterested in the transaction, whether they acted with due care and in good faith and can sufficiently satisfy heightened standards because we believe this transaction is an interested-party transaction, at least as relates to the parent, and also depending on if Your Honor decides to apply just the standard business judgment rule, whether they can satisfy the requirements to meet that.

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 13 1 THE COURT: Mr. Engelhardt, what do you see the issues 2 as? 3 MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, I see the issues as it is 4 an exercise of the business judgment of the debtors. 5 committee has raised principally the negotiation and execution 6 of two documents, the first being what has been termed the 7 January 30th, 2012, support letter, and also the execution of the new servicing agreement which is under the Court's 8 9 consideration on this motion. So whether the debtors exercised 10 their business judgment given the fiscal realities that they were facing and, in the backdrop of the DOJ settlement, as to 11 12 whether they exercised their business judgment, this --13 THE COURT: Is it entire fairness standard? 14 MR. ENGELHARDT: It would be the business judgment 15 standard, Your Honor. 16 THE COURT: Well, is it a related-party transaction? 17 MR. ENGELHARDT: It is a related-party transaction, 18 Your Honor. 19 THE COURT: And was it approved by a majority of the 20 independent directors? 21 MR. ENGELHARDT: I believe it was. I cannot speak 22 definitively to that, Your Honor. 23 MR. O'NEILL: That's interesting, Your Honor, because when I asked about board minutes relating to the servicing 24 25 agreement, I was told there weren't any and that there hadn't eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 14 been a meeting. So, I mean, that's the sort of factual issue I think you're going to be ask to consider on the 14th.

THE COURT: And if the entire fairness doctrine applies, what is the -- what do you anticipate the evidentiary showings for each side to be?

MR. O'NEILL: Your Honor, from the committee side, we believe there is a preexisting indemnification from AFI to Ally Bank entered into at the inception of the DOJ's investigation, and the transactions that we're questioning here effectively transferred that liability to the debtors, and the current motion seeks to pay that liability in its entirety out of debtors for the benefit of the parent and for the benefit of a nondebtor subsidiary.

THE COURT: How many people are working on -- Mr. Engelhardt, how many people, lawyer and nonlawyers and consultants or whoever, is working on production of electronic and paper information?

MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, right now, we are currently gathering a team of all available associates to commence the review process. Counsel at Carpenter Lipps, who have been conducting the 2004 electronic discovery which has been going on simultaneously, is conducting all -- is gathering all available associates. We will see what that availability shows, and then we will endeavor to go firm-wide at Morrison & Foerster to devote as many resources as necessary to get this

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 15 1 production complete. THE COURT: Who's doing the electronic discovery? 2 3 mean, you've got to have nonlawyers, professional and 4 consultants who are -- how is that being done? MR. ENGELHARDT: We are doing it through a company 5 6 called DTI, which is loading it onto a review database. 7 THE COURT: What's the period -- the time period that's covered by the electronic discovery request? 8 9 MR. ENGELHARDT: We are -- the time period goes back 10 to -- that was requested goes back to January -- goes back to I informed the committee earlier in the week that all of 11 that is on tapes and will not be able to be loaded. We have 12 13 gathered materials on the server for January 2012, so the review will be from 2012 onward. 14 MR. O'NEILL: 15 They did inform us of that, Your Honor, 16 and although -- I suppose we'd like to go back -- we don't need 17 to go back to the beginning of 2010; we'd like to go back to 18 the first -- the last couple months of 2011, but we understand 19 the difficulties of getting things on tape and the 20 practicalities of the timetable here, so we haven't pushed it. 21 From January 1, 2012, forward would be sufficient, if possible. 22 THE COURT: And that's all on hard drives, Mr. 23 Engelhardt? MR. ENGELHARDT: That is correct. That has been 24 25 collected as of last night, and it's going through the eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

O'NEILL: Your Honor, we might be able to bridge the gap here. I don't know what Your Honor's calendar looks like, but if Your Honor has availability at the end of the week of the 14th, that might introduce three additional days into the schedule that would allow them to produce and allow proper preparation for the depositions. And that would also avoid -that would also get a hearing in before the expiration of the prior servicing agreement. THE COURT: What's that expiration date again? MR. ENGELHARDT: The expiration date, I believe, is August 20. MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, it's Ray Schrock on behalf of Ally Financial and Ally Bank. That's correct. THE COURT: Look, all well and good for you, but it leaves me no time for a decision. I'm not going to be put in a corner. MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, it's Ray Schrock again. appreciate that. We feel at Ally Financial and Ally Bank we're between a rock and a hard place; we're getting pressure from our regulators at this point. THE COURT: Well, tell the regulators to come in here and let me talk to them because it's fine for them to put eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 17 pressure on, but there's only so -- I don't want to hear that, oh, there's all this pressure, there's all this pressure. This is moving forward expeditiously.

MR. SCHROCK: Certainly.

THE COURT: The committee is entitled to an opportunity -- no one has suggested, and certainly from nothing I've observed, that the committee is dragging its feet on any of this. You all want to get a prompt resolution, but the committee is entitled to a fair opportunity to take its discovery, prepare its case, present its objections if they can't be worked out. I don't want to be told that, well, if you move the hearing to the 16th and 17th, that's before the Monday deadline of the 20th, because then it doesn't leave me any time to do what I might need to do at that point to consider the evidence, come to a reasoned decision.

MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, it's Ray Schrock. Again, I'm very sensitive to that. If I can make a suggestion, just let us know what you're availability is, and we'll go back and speak to them. And if there's an issue, we could always come back to the Court and deal with it. But I fully appreciate how full your calendar is, and we appreciate the expeditious time frame. We're not looking to jam anyone here, Your Honor. We had this motion up for a couple months, so we're just trying to move it along.

THE COURT: How many witnesses to people anticipate eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 18 1 for an evidentiary hearing? 2 Mr. O'Neill? 3 MR. O'NEILL: I'm sorry, Your Honor. I didn't hear 4 you. THE COURT: How many witnesses do you anticipate 5 6 testifying at an evidentiary hearing? MR. O'NEILL: I think -- Your Honor, it's a little bit 7 tough to say before the depositions, but I think most of these 8 9 witnesses are their witnesses who would be presented by them 10 through deposition, then maybe would be subject to cross to the extent, if necessary, beyond what we get out of the deposition 11 12 transcripts and the designations that will be submitted to you. 13 There might be testimony from the Ally or AFI witness, and it's 14 probably on an adverse basis. 15 MR. MCKANE: And Your Honor, this is Mark McKane on 16 behalf of AFI. If you just look at the number of depositions 17 that they have requested, I believe that they've asked for six. 18 So to the extent that you're going to be evaluating written 19 directs and having cross-examination live, which is your 20 practice, there's a chance for up to six witnesses and possibly 21 more, depending on what the committee requests. As it relates 22 to AFI, we have not actually received the 30(b)(6) notice yet, 23 that they've asked for, but we've -- they've given us generally 24 the topics, and we're going to do what we can to make a witness 25 available and have already worked on that process even before eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250

we got the request.

MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, this is Stefan Engelhardt of Morrison & Foerster for the debtors. The debtors' case will go on three declarations, and that would be our direct case as we anticipate it, and then the witnesses will be made available for cross-examination. So while I understand what Mr. McKane is saying, there may be as few as three live witnesses.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Okay. The pause is I'm looking at my calendar.

(Pause)

THE COURT: Okay. I mean, I certainly realize the burden, particularly from electronic discovery, and it is difficult, often, to predict precisely how much time is going to be required to complete it. I'm prepared to move the evidentiary hearing as follows -- just hold on a second again.

Further delay caused by my computer freezing up. Just bear with me.

(Pause)

THE COURT: I mean, I can move the hearing a couple days. I'm prepared to start it on August 16th, which is a Thursday, beginning at 8:30 in the morning and going until 7 o'clock at night. I have two other short matters scheduled that need to go forward; they'll be very short. They're scheduled for 10 o'clock. I estimate that at most it will take

My willingness to do that is contingent on the deadline for the expiration date of the servicing agreement until Friday, August 24th, at 5 p.m. The purpose of that is to allow me sufficient time to consider and rule. Whether it's going to take me all that time, and I'm going to try and do it as expeditiously as possible, but I have -- every day the week of the 20th, I've got a calendar, which I'm not altering. If AFI or Ally Bank is unwilling to extend the expiration date -- who are the parties to the agreement? MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, Ray Schrock for AFI and Ally It's Ally Bank and the debtors. THE COURT: Okay. MR. O'NEILL: GMAC Mortgage. THE COURT: All right. If Ally Bank and the debtors can't agree on that extension -- and let me say, with this, even if it's only moving the dates a few days, that would leave in place that document production begins on Monday, is concluded by Wednesday of next week. If Ally Bank is unwilling to move the expiration date, then the hearing remains the 14th. All document production must be completed by 12 noon, Monday,

So basically, it comes down to, if the debtors need those couple of extra days to complete their production, they better persuade Ally Bank to agree to an extension. I don't --MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, it's Ray Schrock. THE COURT: I don't --MR. SCHROCK: We'll certainly take that back to Ally Bank, and I think, on behalf of my client, they would certainly agree to that; it's just a matter of running it down with the FDIC and making sure that we're all on the same page. Okay. I want to make clear, I'm not THE COURT: committing as to how quickly I would decide things. It may be that it should only happen that I'm able to rule from the bench at the conclusion of the hearing. I hope it isn't going to take as much time as I've set aside for the hearing. It won't take more than that; let me put it that way. When we get closer to the date, we can talk more specifically about it. I mean, I frequently -- I shouldn't say frequently because most cases settle, and we don't have that many trials, but I do time trials. If it's going to be more than a day or something like that, I do a time trial; I allocate time to both sides, use it any way you wish. I think I've been pretty fair in allocating the time.

The fact of the matter is whenever I've done it, no one's ever eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

I think what it's done is caused them to streamline their cases. So I don't know whether -- we'll see whether that's going to be necessary here or not; hopefully not. Is there any hope that you'll be able to resolve these issues without going forward with an evidentiary hearing? MR. ENGELHARDT: Your Honor, this is Stefan Engelhardt for the debtor. I have not been involved in those discussions. I've been focused on the discovery and litigation matters. Perhaps I'll defer to Mr. Eckstein and Mr. Schrock who I believe have been involved in those discussions with Mr. Lee. MR. ECKSTEIN: Your Honor, it's Kenneth Eckstein. I indicated on Tuesday at the status conference on this matter, we did meet last week. We had extensive in-person meetings with the businesspeople for ResCap with executives from Ally Bank, and then we had an extensive meeting with senior executives from AFI that were substantive business discussions, but I'm told that at this point in time we should assume that this is going to go to a hearing. But I do tend to always sort of be optimistic that we can find our way there, and obviously, the committee would like to try to do that. Okay. Look, in whatever -- you either THE COURT: will or won't be able to do it. I don't doubt that there will forward, I want to be sure -- because the applicable -- you both seem to agree that, in one form or another, a business judgment standard may be the appropriate standard to apply, because the parties seem to -- do agree that it's a related-party transaction. That raises -- I don't know. I mean, as soon as I heard that, that's when entire fairness came

Court is to apply in its review of the transaction.

MR. LEE: Your Honor, this is Gary Lee. I just wanted to comment on the -- sorry -- from Morrison & Foerster. I just wanted to comment on the state of the negotiations between the to mind. I don't know whether that's the applicable standard, but I definitely want the parties to address what standard the parties.

THE COURT: Go ahead.

MR. LEE: I don't want to give undue hope, but at the last hearing, I did remark that we had disagreements with both the committee and with Ally, and we were sort of reaching towards a tentative agreement with Ally. So the debtors intend to continue -- obviously to do what they can to see how the parties can bridge their disagreements.

And the other observation I wanted to make, Your Honor, is I don't think anybody is disagreeing that we need this agreement. I think where the disagreement lies, Your Honor, is who has to pay the indemnity which, to my mind, is a fundamentally different issue to whether this agreement should

RESIDENTIAL CAPITAL, LLC, ET AL. 24 be approved. I think everybody recognizes that it's absolutely in the debtors' and the estate's and the creditors' interests that the agreement be approved. The question is on what terms, and then what terms, if any, will be imposed upon the parties that neither of -- that nobody likes, but everybody can live with.

MR. ECKSTEIN: And Your Honor, we think there are legal issues raised in that context. We could certainly be prepared to address those at the hearing.

THE COURT: Well, I think from the committee's standpoint, I understood this from the last hearing, it's a real large dollar amount that's being currently paid in indemnity payments; there's a lot of money involved. You all seem to agree that servicing should go forward, but the issue is the quantum of this indemnity obligation with the committee taking the position that responsibility should be with AFI and AFI certainly taking the position that it's not. I mean, I only have probably an imprecise understanding of the dispute at this point, but --

MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, it's Ray Schrock. I think that there's not a huge gap between -- dollars-wise between the committee and other parties at this point, but we'll certainly work at it. We do have to go forward at a hearing. We believe that there are issues around what's the entirety of the agreement, as well as other legal argument would have to be made in that regard. We don't really have a copy of an objection, I know, the committee had stated previously that it was working on. Not filing an objection was very sensitive to the sensitive nature of these proceedings, and we appreciate that. At the same time, we'd like to be able to address any legal issues that are raised.

THE COURT: Mr. Schrock, I think you probably have a pretty good idea, Mr. Eckstein doesn't seem like one to hold back on what his issues are, but --

MR. SCHROCK: Certainly.

THE COURT: So I think you have a pretty clear understanding of what the issues are, whether they're in a form of a filed objection or not. Am I wrong in that?

MR. LEE: Your Honor, could I just intercede here because I don't think this is a necessary debate. I think that the committee counsel has indicated that they are prepared to consider providing on an informal basis a letter that sets out in some fashion or another what objections they might have. And the reason why there might be some value in that, Your Honor, is if we're going to both be submitting simultaneous briefs on August the 7th, it might go some way to narrowing the issues if we all, for example, have common grounds that the agreement needs to be reached -- I'm sorry -- needs to be approved and that what we're discussing, Your Honor, isn't the existential threat that's created by rejecting the agreement or

LEE: If we could --THE COURT: Have you sat down in the same room together and Mr. Eckstein laid out for you specifically what his problems, legal and factual, are and you've had a chance to respond to that on an informal basis? Has that happened? MR. LEE: Mr. Eckstein and I have the habit of speaking to each other several times every day. THE COURT: But have been in the same room when you've done this? MR. LEE: Only in relation, Your Honor, to what I would describe as the factual predicate. I think that where we are, I'd suggest, not one hundred percent clear is on the legal issues and the legal principals. And if he were kind enough to iust --THE COURT: Well, here, I've got a 2 o'clock calendar, so let me just stop you there. MR. LEE: Yeah. I was supposed to be out of town next THE COURT: week, and I've had to alter those plans. I'd like to schedule another telephone, on-the-record, status conference for Wednesday, August 1st, at 4 o'clock. There's a very slight chance I might have to alter that, but I think I should be eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 able -- that time should work for me.

And what I want to happen is, before -- no later than Tuesday, the 31st, Mr. Eckstein, I want you to meet with Mr. Lee and Mr. Schrock and whoever else needs to be part of this discussion. You need to be in the same room with each other. I know you've been talking to each other about a lot of these things, but I really want you to sit down face-to-face, see whether you can narrow -- hopefully, resolve the issues, if not, narrow them. The committee -- I'm sure the committee is talking about this regularly, but you want to be in a position to know with authority what the committee is prepared to accept or recommend for approval.

MR. ECKSTEIN: Your Honor, I'm -- and I know you have a hearing, I know you have a calendar, and I will ultimately do whatever Your Honor would like me to do. That said, I think, on this one, I have to say, I -- and I think I was pretty clear on Tuesday about exactly what our views are on this motion.

And I spent three full days, really at the request of Mr.

Schrock, meeting with my clients with Mr. Marana, who's the CEO of the debtor, with the CEO of Ally Bank, and with the general counsel and the executive vice president of AFI on three consecutive days. Each meeting was several hours --

THE COURT: Okay.

MR. ECKSTEIN: -- with counsel and clients, and they know exactly what our issues are, factual and legal. And to

THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Schrock? MR. SCHROCK: Yes? THE COURT: Why haven't you responded with a substantive response to Mr. Eckstein's proposal? MR. SCHROCK: We did respond, Your Honor. THE COURT: Okay. Let's --MR. ECKSTEIN: Respectfully, Your Honor, it was --THE COURT: Okay. MR. ECKSTEIN: -- they did not change their position from the position that was filed in the Marano declaration. THE COURT: All right. We'll just go forward. I want to know -- let me know tomorrow whether the hearing is being moved or whether it's going forward on the 14th. If we're going forward on the 14th, that's fine, except that when I say it's fine, if the debtors haven't completed all of -- all, all, electronic, everything -- if they haven't completed all eScribers, LLC | (973) 406-2250 operations@escribers.net | www.escribers.net

Forget the point about the face-to-face meeting. I do want to have a status conversation by telephone, as I indicated. MR. ECKSTEIN: Your Honor, I -- and I will assure Your Honor, and I was pleased to hear Mr. Schrock say that he doesn't think we're that far apart. And if that suggests that there are going to be further discussions, I will assure Your Honor that we will be at those meetings. There is no reluctance to sit down and try. As Mr. Lee said, there's a lot of dialogue in this case. THE COURT: I have never perceived that there was any reluctance on your part to sit down and try and resolve issues. So that --MR. ECKSTEIN: If I may, Your Honor, I know you have to go, but there is the simple issue of we have negotiated a confidentiality agreement with AFI. THE COURT: Yes. MR. ECKSTEIN: We've also completed confi's with ResCap and with Cerberus. AFI has now raised the suggestion that there needs to be a protective order. We have not had protective orders in this case with any other party. We didn't think a protective order was needed. We had a separate confi

But before we sort of raise this to the level of protective order, we frankly wanted to raise it; we thought a confi was sufficient, and we were really unclear why there's a need for a court protective order in order to simply have documents exchanged. THE COURT: Mr. Schrock. And so right now, there's a delay in MR. ECKSTEIN: any documents coming from AFI until that issue got sorted out. THE COURT: Mr. Schrock, what's your answer? MR. SCHROCK: Your Honor, I feel I'm a bit unarmed on that one. My litigator, Mr. McKane, I believe is in the Hawker Beechcraft KEIP hearing at the moment. He had to drop for the 14 2 o'clock hearing. I am aware of the issue. I didn't believe that there was any delay in getting documents over to the committee. In fact, I was told they were going over on a professional-eyes-only basis that I heard Mr. O'Neill say earlier. So we'll work it out, Your Honor, and we'll get to the bottom of it. I just don't have an answer for you at the moment. THE COURT: Mr. Eckstein? MR. ECKSTEIN: Given the speed with which we would have to proceed, I just don't want this to hold up our ability to receive documents, and I can't accept every document on a
